Student Introductions

Hello Aamjiwnaang,

My name is Mikeesha Bressette and I have accepted the position of the Reception Assistant at Maawn Doosh Gamig this summer. I just graduated from St. Clair Secondary School and I have been accepted into Pre-Health Science at Lambton College in the fall. I plan on attending college at Lambton for this one-year program and then prepare to go to Fanshawe College for Dental Hygiene with the hopes of becoming a Dental Hygienist in the near future. I am really enjoying working for this position and I plan on having a great summer working here.

Hello!

My name is Kaitlind Peters and I am the KIPS summer student coordinator this summer! In September, I will be going into my fourth year at Queens University, where I am studying to become a teacher. Through the Concurrent Education program, I have had the opportunity to complete three teaching placements within various classroom settings. My last placement was at Hillside School in Kettle Point.

I have been working hard to plan a fulfilled summer at KIPS and I look forward to working with the kids! If you have any questions at all about KIPS you can reach me at the community center @ 519-491-2160.

Hello, my name is Karlee Jackson and I am more than thrilled to have accepted the Summer Recreation position at the Maawn Doosh Gumig Community Center. I will be attending The University of Western Ontario in the fall studying Criminology. Please feel free to come to the fitness room at anytime, as I will be more than willing to assist you and answer any questions. Have a great summer!

Student Introductions

Hi, My name is Daanis Fisher and this summer I am working at the band office in the environment department. I have just recently graduated from S.C.I.T.S. High School and I am going to Lambton College in the fall for Human Service Foundation. I look forward to seeing you all at our summer events.

Hello, My name is Hailey Daws and I will be working at the band office in the environment department. I am a current student at S.C.I.T.S. and am looking forward to getting to know our community and environment better.

Hello! My name is Austin Williams. I am working as a summer student in the environment department in the basement of the band office. I also enjoyed working here last summer. So I am very privileged and excited to be back again for another summer term.

I will be focusing specifically on a species at risk found right here in our community called the butler garter snake. So keep a look out for our little friends when mowing your grass. Our ecosystem depends on them!

I recently graduated from St. Clair Secondary School but will be returning for a victory lap this upcoming fall.

I look forward to doing more work with our outreach projects with the department and becoming more familiar with the members of our community.

Hi, My name is Nick Nahmabin and I am a summer student working in the environment department at the band office. I go to Sarnia Collegiate Institute & Technical School and I will be going into grade 11 in the fall.

Drinking Water Monitoring Program

Hello Aamjiwnaang Community Members—The Drinking Water Monitoring Program has begun again. I will be conducting water sampling each week throughout the community buildings and homes in the community.

The Drinking Water Monitoring Program will consist of testing for chlorine residual and bacteria, such as E.Coli.

If you are interested in having your home drinking water source tested, please contact me at the Health Centre at 519-332-6770.

*Kindly,
Jessica Joseph, RPN, CHR*

Chi Mii Gwetch!

Chi Mii Gwetch to the Zombie Walker volunteers for donating $160 and to Roger and Pauline Williams for donating $100 for the Aamjiwnaang Food Bank. Your donations are greatly appreciated in helping to keep the shelves filled at our community Food Bank.

Being Kind

What does it mean to be kind?
It means reaching out from inside
to smile at someone,
to share what you have,
to cheer for someone who has tried.
Kindness can mean spending time with someone who's feeling alone, inviting a person
to play on your team,
or doing kinds deeds on your own.
Kindness can change someone's mood
or add happiness to a day.
No matter how simple
the kind thing you do,
the joy they give goes a long way.

ANTIOXIDANTS & CANCER PREVENTION

Free radicals have the potential to damage cells, including damage that may cause cancer. Antioxidants block the activity of free radicals.

Research has shown that antioxidants from outside sources (ie food, supplements) can help prevent the free radical damage associated with the development of cancer.

Here are some foods that are loaded with antioxidants:

- Beans-red, kidney, pinto, black
- Apples
- Plums/Prunes
- Berries
- Cherries
- Grapes/Raisins
- Spinach/Kale
- Onions
- Bell Peppers
- Broccoli

Budget Tips:

Beans are an excellent alternative to meat and are very inexpensive, especially if you buy them dried. You can buy bell peppers and onions when they're in season or on sale, chop them up and freeze them. Same goes for spinach and kale, which can later be added to soups, sauces, smoothies and stir-fry.

Your body needs nutrients to function well. Choosing foods loaded with nutrients will give you energy and help fight sickness and disease.

Helping those with low incomes be healthy...

Do you know someone who cannot afford to purchase the medications or medical supplies they need to get over a period of poor health?

The Erie St. Clair LHIN has provided one-time funding to help those in need purchase one-time medical supplies/medications.

Health Care Providers:

1. On a signed prescription:
  - Identify the person by name and date of birth
  - Identify which medication or medical supply you have assessed them to need per basis
2. Send them to one of North Lambton CHC's four sites to pick up the identified item.

Social Services Agencies:

- If the person has a health care provider (MD or NP) ask them to see their provider to obtain a signed prescription identifying what is needed.
- If the person does not have a health care provider ask them to call the North Lambton Community Health Centre to arrange an assessment.

Butler's Garter Snake

Butler's garter snake is a species of garter snake in the family Colubridae. They inhabit moist, grassy, open canopy areas, such as meadows, wet prairies, marshes, savannas and grasslands. . The species can often be found under rocks, logs, trash, and boards. They subsist on a diet of mainly earthworms, but they may also eat leeches, salamanders, and frogs. Butler's garter snakes are a relatively short-lived species, and they reach sexual maturity in their second spring. The Butler's Garter snake is protected under Ontario's Endangered Species Act and the federal Species at Risk Act. This species has also been designated as a Specially Protected Reptile under the Ontario Fish and Wildlife Conservation Act.

Asian Carp

Four Asian carp have been substantially introduced outside of their native ranges:

Grass Carp

Silver Carp

Bighead Carp

Black Carp

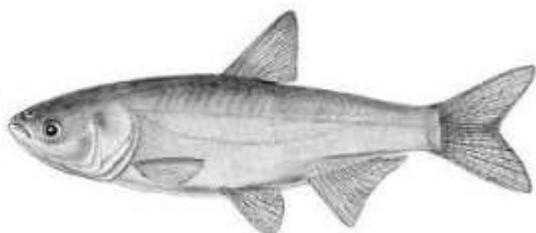

Some species of Asian carp cause harm when they are introduced to new environments. The black carp feeds on native mussels and snails, some of which can be already endangered. Grass carp can alter the food webs of a new environment by altering the communities of plants, invertebrates and fish. Silver carp feed on the plankton necessary for larval fish and native mussels. Asian carps prefer cool to moderate water temperatures, like those found near the shores of the Great Lakes.

Sea Lamprey

The Sea lamprey is a parasitic lamprey found in the northern Atlantic Ocean along shores of Europe and North America, in the western Mediterranean Sea, and in the Great Lakes. It is brown, gray, or black on its back and white or gray on the underside and can grow up to 90 cm (35.5 in) long.

Sea lampreys are considered a pest in the Great Lakes region. It is not clear whether it is native to Lake Ontario, where it was first noticed in the 1830s, or whether it was introduced through the Erie Canal which opened in 1825. The sea lamprey is an aggressive predator by nature, which gives it a competitive advantage in a lake system where it has no predators and its prey lacks defenses against it. Although it is likely impossible to eliminate the sea lamprey from the Great Lakes, ongoing efforts to control the species have reduced populations by 90 per cent. Unfortunately, the remaining sea lampreys continue to affect native fish species.

During the next 6 weeks the summer students will assist in working with the environment department. Our summer students are Nick Nahmabin, Daanis Fisher, Austin Williams and Hailey Daws and they will be working with Christine in her office during the duration of the summer. They help plan the environment carnival held on Saturday July, 12. It was grand time, there was around 100 people that showed and got updated on all the outreach projects that Aamjiwnaang is working on. We had face painting by the painted cat and even had batman make an appearance. And on July 16th the summer students went on a stinky tour at the Waste Water Treatment Plant, to show them what happens to our waste.

Community Garden

For those of you who have not heard the exciting news, a Community Garden has been planted at the Health Centre. We have a total of 39 tomato plants, pepper plants, corn, beans, parsley, green onions, beans, watermelon, and both English and pickling cucumbers. The garden was planted to supplement the food bank with fresh produce, and distribute to community members. We are also hoping to have community canning and salsa making workshops. I would also say chi miigwech to the OW program for the donation of the tomato plants, Mike Jackson and crew for assisting in preparing the land, and Lareina Rising for her plant and mulch donations as well as her hard work in helping to plan and plant the garden. If you have any questions regarding the garden please contact me at 332-6770.

NEWS RELEASE

Waub Rice to receive storytelling honour

UOI OFFICES (Nipissing FN) July 15, 2014 – CBC journalist Waubgeshig Rice has been selected as the 2014 recipient of the Debwewin Citation for excellence in First Nations Storytelling.

Rice, a citizen of Wasauksing First Nation near Parry Sound, Ont. is a videojournalist in the public broadcaster's Ottawa newsroom. He produced "Capital NDNs", an hour-long television documentary about contemporary Aboriginal life in Ottawa, and his video contributions to CBC's "8th Fine Digital Project" include "Mixed Blood" and "Sacraments and the Smudge".

"I learned a lot about being Anishinaabe as a child through the stories my grandmother, aunts and uncles told me," says Rice, who pursued a journalism degree from Ryerson University in Toronto after coming to the realization that Canada's education system and media were responsible for what he calls "the rift between Native and non-Native people in Canada."

A former summer intern with the Anishinabek News, Rice worked for CBC television in Winnipeg and produced the CBC Radio series "ReVision Quest" before moving to Ottawa in 2010.

Anishinabek Nation Grand Council Chief Patrick Madahbee will present Waubgeshig – his name means "white sky" in Ojibwe – with the Debwewin Citation during the 2014 Evening of Excellence presented by the Anishinabek Nation Seventh Generation Charity.

"All political leaders recognize the importance of communications," said the Grand Council Chief on behalf of the 39 member Anishinabek First Nations. "The Anishinabek are proud and fortunate to number among our citizens people like Waub Rice, who can help create greater awareness among Canadians about our people, our culture, and our contemporary issues."

Madahbee also praised the contributions of Greg Plain of Aamjiwnaang First Nation near Sarnia, who will be presented with a special Honourary Mention plaque at the Aug. 20th event in Sudbury.

"It's important that our citizens and communities get public recognition for the things they achieve, and Greg has contributed over 50 stories for the Anishinabek News about people and projects in our Southwest Region."

The Debwewin Citations are the first major awards intended to recognize and encourage excellence in reporting about Native issues by First Nations and other writers. A selection committee appointed by the Union of Ontario Indians communications unit solicits nominations for the awards, whose name reflects the Ojibwe words for "truth", but which literally means "to speak from the heart".

The award has been presented nine times since first given to Toronto Star journalist Peter Edwards in 2002 for his extensive body of work related to the death of unarmed Anishinabek protester Dudley George on Sept. 6, 1995 at the former Ipperwash Provincial Park. Since then it has honoured not just journalists, but others who use their storytelling skills to create greater awareness about First Peoples across Anishinabek Nation territory. Last year's recipient was CBC reporter Jody Porter, for her ongoing coverage of First Nations issues in the Thunder Bay area. Anishinabek recipients have included renowned Anishinabek author Basil Johnston from Cape Croker, columnist Bud Whiteye from Walpole Island, and writer/broadcaster Jennifer Ashawasagai from Henvey Inlet. The 2004 honouree was Lynn Johnston, who introduced First Nations people and places into "For Better or For Worse", her cartoon strip carried by over 2,000 newspapers in 22 countries.

The Anishinabek Nation established the Union of Ontario Indians as its secretariat in 1949. The UOI is a political advocate for 39 member communities across Ontario, representing approximately 55,000 people. The Union of Ontario Indians is the oldest political organization in Ontario and can trace its roots back to the Confederacy of Three Fires, which existed long before European contact.

THE BACKYARD REVOLUTION:
How Native Plants Can Save Children and Other Endangered Species

By Richard Louv, May 26th, 2014

I was intrigued when I first heard that my local natural history museum was considering handing out packets of seeds to schoolchildren so that they might plant their own backyards with native vegetation to attract butterflies — thus helping bring back butterfly migration routes.

“There was something enchanting about this plan — the idea of entering intimate participation in the life currents of the world, through the modest doorway of a suburban backyard or window box in an inner city.”

These currents swirl around and over and through our lives. And yet, most of us are far more aware of the signals of our mobile phone and computer networks.

What if we were equally aware of the timing and routes of, say, monarch butterflies, those that breed in North America and each year migrate over a thousand miles to spend the winter in a small patch of pine forest in Mexico? Or the Neotropical birds — the wood thrushes, cerulean warblers, scarlet tanagers, indigo buntings, and Baltimore orioles on the wing from Kentucky to the Andes?

What if we were to take part in these migrations by nurturing a planting a few feet from the barbecue grill? That grill, that yard, would then be connected to something large, magnificent, and not entirely explicable.

Habitat fragmentation and degradation are disrupting those routes at unprecedented rates, but Doug Tallamy believes that we can do something about that, and we can at least help salvage — or build — the biodiversity of our continent, from our backyards. Tallamy is professor and chair of the Department of Entomology and Wildlife Ecology at the University of Delaware.

I highly recommend his book, “Bringing Nature Home: How Native Plants Sustain Wildlife in Our Gardens.”

A modest, self-efacing man, he offers this radical idea: the site of North America’s resurgent biodiversity is in your back yard, and your family has power: “My central message is that unless we restore native plants to our suburban ecosystems, the future of biodiversity is dim.” He tempers this gloomy prediction with two points of optimism: “First and foremost, it is not yet too late to save most of the plants and animals that sustain the ecosystems on which we ourselves depend. Second, restoring native plants to most human-dominated landscapes is relatively easy to do.”

“For the first time in history “gardening has taken on a role that transcends the needs of the gardener. Like it or not, gardeners have become important layers in the management of our nation’s wildlife. It is now in the power of individual gardeners to do something that we all dream of doing: to ‘make a difference.’”

Analyzing data from all over the world, one researcher found a one-to-one relationship between species loss and loss of native habitat. An example: In Delaware, 40 percent of all native plant species are threatened or extinct; 41 percent of native birds that depend on native forest cover are rare or gone. Save a native plant, save a native bird.

THE VITAL ROLE OF PLANTS

~ Plants are not optional—we can’t live without them!” We all breathe, but who takes the time to think about where the oxygen was produced? - Nearly every creature on the planet owes its existence to plants, the only organisms capable of capturing the sun’s energy and turning it into food for the rest of us. When there are many species of plants, there are many species of animals. If you want to create ecosystems with a diversity of animal species, we first have to encourage a healthy diversity of plants. By gardening with native plants — no matter where you live or how small your space is — you can help sustain wildlife. We must manage our biodiversity just as we manage our water resources, our clean air, and our energy. Fortunately, biodiversity is a renewable resource that is relatively easy to increase. By choosing native plants, we can all contribute.

The Indigenous Grandmothers Empowerment Alliance in partnership with Neegoni, CAMH, Wharnccliffe Indigenous Knowledge Retreat and sponsored by New Horizons Program of Service Canada will be hosting four healing retreats.

Send your registration early. Limited Spots available.
Make your Arrangements to cover your costs.

The traditional cultural experience will comprise of four 4-day retreats with 15 young girls between the ages of 17 to 30, from May to October. The land-based experience will share Indigenous knowledge and wise healing practices that include Grandmother's teachings and healing ceremonies. The ceremonies will be specific to young women's teachings, rites of passage, Sacredness of women, traditional roles and responsibilities. If you know a youth (17-30) who could benefit from this experience, please consider sponsoring their travel and accommodations at event.

The retreat is designed to empower, build self-esteem and confidence, relieve stress, and letting go of negative experiences from trauma, addictions, abuse, violence and intergenerational impacts, healing from past wounds and is designed to teach young girls ancient traditional roles on being a young woman (sacredness of woman), traditional medicines teachings, connections to the Feminine, Mother Earth, Water, Grandmother Moon and the Natural World. Woman are Sacred beings and this knowledge will be shared.

ABORIGINAL PATIENT NAVIGATOR
A SERVICE TO MEET CANCER CARE NEEDS

Aboriginal Patient Navigator (APN) is a position created by Cancer Care Ontario to meet the needs identified by the First Nations, Metis & Inuit people in the Erie St. Clair LHIN. The APN is located within the Erie St. Clair Regional Cancer Program at Windsor Regional Hospital. The role of the APN is to support the patient and family throughout the cancer journey.

We recognize the specific health requirements of the First Nations, Metis & Inuit people and have developed a unique program to better address your specific needs.

The APN is able to provide information on treatment and support available to you, including:

- Alternative medicine
- Canadian Cancer Society volunteer drivers
- Canadian Cancer Society brochures
- Community Care Access Centre
- Counselling for children & adults
- Chemotherapy/Radiation
- Non-Insured Health Benefits
- Palliative Care
- Traditional medicine/healers
- Victoria Order of Nurses

Access to the APN is easy and was developed through input from your community. A referral can be taken over the phone and come from any of the following: Personal, Family, Friend, Doctor, Health Centre, Hospital, or Social Worker.

After the referral, you will be contacted and a site visit will be arranged. Your confidentiality will always be respected.
