WINTER WEATHER

Spending time outdoors in the winter season is good for your health, and can be a lot of fun. But you need to be aware and prepared for Canada's cold and severe winter weather. In an average year, more Canadians die from exposure to winter cold than from lightning, wind storms and tornadoes combined.

When severe winter weather threatens, Environment Canada issues special alerts that notify Canadians in affected areas so that they can take steps to protect themselves and their property from harm. These weather alert bulletins are issued through the media, as well as through the Weatheradio service, and the Government of Canada's weather.gc.ca website.

Canada has one of the most severe winter climates of any country in the world. We experience a wide variety of dangerous weather conditions including extreme cold, blinding blizzards, and treacherous ice storms. Even conditions more typical of the warmer months such as heavy rain and lightning are possible in winter.

Anyone who has ever waited at a bus stop or taken a walk on a blustery winter day knows that you feel colder when the wind blows. This cooling sensation that is caused by the combined effect of temperature and wind is what is known as wind chill. The best way to avoid the hazards of wind chill is to check the weather forecast before going outside, and to be prepared by dressing warmly.

And it's not just the weather itself that can have serious consequences, but also the rapid transitions between weather types or the long durations of any one particular type that occur from time to time. It's one thing to be prepared for the cold, snow and ice, but are you ready for those times when the weather changes in the blink of an eye or when nasty conditions seem to go on forever?

This is why it's important to be aware of the various weather alerts available from Environment Canada, which are issued to help you make informed decisions.

Three Types of Wintertime Alerts

The type of alert used depends on the severity and timing of the event:

- Special Weather Statements are the least urgent type of alert. These are issued to let you know that conditions are unusual and could cause concern. They provide a heads up of what weather may be coming.
- Watches alert you about weather conditions where there is potential for a significant storm or severe weather to occur. As certainty increases about the path and strength of a storm system, a Watch could be upgraded to a Warning.
- Warnings are urgent messages that severe weather is either occurring or will occur. These alerts are updated regularly so that you can stay informed and take appropriate action.

Any of the three threats can arrive alone or in combination of two or more.

Cold Weather Safety

If it's too cold for you to go outside, it's too cold for your pet! Winter's chill affects animals, just like it affects people. Every year, the Ontario SPCA investigates thousands of complaints about animals left unprotected from winter weather. Exposure to harsh conditions can cause serious illness or death to animals, particularly during periods of freezing rain and rapid temperature fluctuations.

Canada's laws require that animals receive adequate shelter and care. Willful failure to provide adequate shelter could lead to prosecution and a fine, jail sentence or prohibition from having custody of animals.

Keep pets warm

When the temperature drops below freezing, pets should not be left outside for extended periods. Cats, short-coated dogs and puppies are particularly vulnerable in cold temperatures. Keep cats indoors and protect your dogs from frostbite or hypothermia by taking them outside for short periods during cold weather. Consider slipping your short-coated dog or puppy into a comfortable dog sweater or coat as an extra layer of warmth. Never shave your dog down to the skin in winter, as a longer coat will provide more warmth. As well, when bathing your dog during winter months, ensure he is completely dry before taking him outside.

Since puppies are generally less tolerant of cold weather than adult dogs, to housetrain your puppy during frigid temperatures put a jacket or sweater on him when you take him outside on leash with you to the designated "toilet" area. Give him a treat as soon as he is done, and then bring him back inside. If he hasn't shown any signs of needing to "go" after a couple of minutes, bring him inside and supervise to prevent accidents, or crate him (dogs are less likely to soil where they eat or sleep), and then try again a little later.

Avoid car hazards

Never leave your cat or dog alone in a car during cold weather. Cars hold in the cold, acting like refrigerators, which could cause your dog to freeze to death.

Also, be aware of cats seeking warmth under vehicle hoods. When the vehicle motor is started, the cat can be injured or killed by the fan belt. Make a point of knocking on the hood or sounding the horn before starting the engine. This will warn away any cats who may be hiding in your vehicle.

Another danger for pets this time of year is ethylene glycol, which is found in antifreeze and brake fluids and is deadly to all animals. It tastes sweet, so animals may ingest it; a very small amount can be fatal. Emergency veterinary care is essential. Always clean up any spills carefully and dispose of the rags as hazardous waste. Be alert for antifreeze spills when out on walks.

Protect outdoor dogs

Outdoor dogs must be provided adequate shelter and a constant supply of fresh water. While the Ontario SPCA strongly recommends bringing your dog indoors, dogs that live outside require as a minimum a dry, draft-free doghouse soundly built of weatherproof materials with the door facing away from prevailing winds. It should be elevated and insulated, with a door flap and bedding of straw or wood shavings. Check your pet's water frequently to ensure it's not frozen and use a tip-resistant plastic or ceramic bowl, rather than metal, to prevent your dog's tongue sticking to the cold metal surface. There are also heated and/or insulated bowls available that prevent water from freezing.

Take pet precautions

Use a damp towel to wipe your pet's paws and underside after being outside. Salt and other chemicals used to melt snow and ice on roads and sidewalks can irritate and burn your pet's sensitive paws - and can cause injury if ingested. Also, remove ice balls by placing your pet's feet in warm (not hot) water before drying them off with a towel. Consider using "booties" to protect your pet's paws.

Don't let your dog off leash on ice or snow, especially during a snowstorm, as dogs can lose their scent and easily become lost. Ensure your pet always has a warm place to sleep away from drafts and off the floor. A thick cozy dog or cat bed with a blanket or pillow is great.

ATTENTION: PETS IN THE WINTER

There are bales of straw available at the Band Garage for pets for the winter.
Limit is 1 per household. Thank-you!

justice film festival

2018-2019

Death By Design

Saturday, November 17, 2018 7 p.m.

Just in time for the holiday season, this film investigates the underbelly of the electronics industry and reveals how even the smallest devices have deadly environmental and health costs. From the intensely secretive factories in China, to a ravaged New York community and the high-tech corridors of Silicon Valley.

What Walaa Wants

Saturday, January 19, 2019 7 p.m.

Raised in a refugee camp while her mother was in prison, Walaa is determined to survive bootcamp to become one of the few women on the Palestinian Security Forces – a big challenge for a girl who breaks all the rules.

Recovery Boys

Saturday, February 16, 2019 7 p.m.

In a region ravaged by opioid abuse, four young men in a farming-based rehab forge a bond as they try to reinvent their lives after years of addiction.

At the Fork

Saturday, March 23, 2019 7 p.m.

A refreshingly unbiased look at how farm animals are raised for our consumption. The filmmaker asks the tough questions behind every hamburger, glass of milk and baby-back rib. What he discovers are not heartless industrialists, but America's farmers - real people who, along with him, are grappling with the moral dimensions of farming animals for food.

Happening

Saturday, April 13, 2019 7 p.m.

An uplifting and colourful journey into the dawn of the clean energy era as it creates jobs, turns profits and makes communities stronger and healthier.

The Sarnia Justice Film Festival exists to promote the understanding of justice issues while advocating for the well-being of local and global neighbours.

All films are screened free of charge at the Sarnia Library Theatre.
